Next Tuesday in the industry to the souther are linear for the meeting at Hartford, Poughteepsie an whip and do some vicerous riding at the finish on Burlington, the favorine at olds on. It is well known, however, that furtington. Bike Salvator and meny other noted racers, is singgish, and requires urging before he will fully exert himself and show his best speed. Mr. Withers and his trainer and his friends thought that King Eric would prove a thorn in Burlington's side, as the distance was only a mile. They were sadly disappointed when the min came, as they believed that King Eric would arrely defeat burlington on a dry track. Even in the mid they expected their cold to make a fine showing arainst Burlington, for nearly all the King Erics sea swim a little in mid, and most of Mr. Withers's horses run equally ill whether the truck is wet or dry. tarrison did not seem to fide King Eric in exactly the style which proved so conspicuously and trainsplantly successful in the Withers Stakes and the Flectwood at West-chester. In both of those races he let the cold go out some lengths in front under the easiest and architest of guidance, run at his own gait and own sweet will and at good speed from the fall of the flag, and in both races King Eric won with much to spare at the end. This time he let him go out in front, it is true, but he apparently never tried to get away more than a length from the rest of the field, and he kept the cold under what looked like a choking pull. King Eric always had the faintest and feeblest of hearts, and the minutest homocopathic quantity of courage. This choking pull strangled his microscopic modicum of a spirit, and king Eric dropped out of the race at the head of the homestretch, quitting in a style that was almost appalling from its startling suddenness. Garrison always butterly resents any criticisms on his riding, and has often expressed the opinion that his critics were nothing but shownakers who knew nothing about riding. Therefore it must be considered time for the faint along with King Eric. Ken-wood ran fair below his average form this year. He was never dangerous for a se both Firenzi and Salvator were withdrawn from the Bay Bidge Handicap, at a mile and a half with $1,750 added money. Only three rath, Tea Tray, Cassins and Dunboyne. Tea Tray was the favorite at only on, Cassins second choice at 7 to 5, and 5 to 5, with almost anything you liked against Dunboyne. It was no race. Cassins went out instantly, you many lengths in from oil fea Pray, and fea Tray could never get near him cassins won by six could never get near him cassins won by six femily in 2.50. After fea Tray beat Sir Dixon on Froiax many hasty observers expressed prefound a great that Lakeland him por started fea Tray in the suburban, and thought from his race with Sir Dixon that he night have gained a phace in the great handicap. If they saw Cassins make such a shew of him as he made in the Bay Ludge Haddicap, they must have been convinced that Lakeland knew its lossing-when he declined to start an animal of Fea Tray's when he declined to start an animal of Fea Tray's choice in a race as the suburban. The explanation of Fea Tray's victory over Sir Dixon is not that Fea Tray is very good, but that Sir Dixon is not most pitiably had.

The Effic race was also a bandicap, the distance three Owsley struck out, and Stagg was put out at first, however, and Yale did not score. Alward, Upton and Mason flied out in order. In the third inning Calhoun made a long grounder, stole second and came in on an error by Alward. McBride and Cushing struck out, and Murphy was thrown out and a passed ball, and after Owsley had struck out, 2 to 0. Dean made a pretty double play, unassisted, second. Trafford scored for Harvard on Owsley's went out on strikes and no Harvard man got beyond first. In the seventh Calhoun and McBride made hits and reached third. The former scored, but the latter was hit by the ball and declared out. Harvard again did not score. Cushing and McClintock struck out, and Owsley was out at first. Howstruck out, and Owsley was out at hist. How-land made a run, leaving the score at the beginning at the ninth, 3 to 2 in Yale's favor. Stagg then filed out to Howland, and Calhoun and McBride were out at first.

Here was Harvard's great chance, and she improved it. Bates made a lift, Dean filed out, Linn got his base on balls, and then both Bates and Linn came in on a line hit by Howland, making the score 4 to 3. The score:

THE TURNER-BUND OF NORTH AMERICA.

ITS FOURTEENTH ANNUAL CONVENTION OPENED North America was opened last night in the fine Central Turn Hall, in East Sixty-seventh-st. It is some years since a National Turner convention has been held here and the Turners of this city have made preparations to entertain their visitors in royal style. There are about 40,000 in the country, who are distributed throughout thirty-five districts, and about 150 visiting delegates assembled at the opening of the

A hand entertained the delegates before and between the speeches, the andience joining in with a rousing chorus when some familiar air was played.

S. D. Sewards, the president of this district, welcomed the delegates in a pleasant speech, saying that the societies disagreed on no question, for they stood on solid ground. They did their best for the welfare of the country. That the convention might be successful he proposed three cheers. The convention gave them, after which J. H. V. Arnold, president of the Board of Aldermen, in behalf of Mayor Grant, welcomed the visiting turners to the city. Lonis Baumann, speaker of the Central

Turn-Verein, also made a speech. After this there was muste and a general good time. The convention will begin its formal business to-day at 10 a. m. with a formal address by Huge day at 10 a, m. with a formal address by Huge Muench, the president. In the evening there will be dancing and tableaus. The convention will be in session three hours on Monday and Tuesday, and two on Wednesday. At 1 p. m. on Wednesday the delegates will boind the steamer Erastus Wiman at East Sixty seventh-st, and sail up the East River as far as sands Point. The turners will discuss society affairs, ballot-reform, child-labor, and the question of electing the President and Unified States Senators by popular vote. The most interesting society questions that are to be considered are propositions to half a home for superannuated turners, to hold festivals and conventions every three years in order to draw the turner societies into closer relations, and also to establish a seminary for turners.

The visiting delegates come from all over the country, and are a representative set of men. They are stopping at Earle's Hotel, Canal and Centre sts.

Inquiry at the house showed that Mrs. Kelsey went to a wedding on Wednesday night and was prostrated by the heat. She was able to get home, but was worse in the night and was attended by a physician on the following day. Yesterday, however, she was able to be up. Dr. B. L. Houghton, of No. 1,350 Bedford-ave., who attended her, said that she suffered from the combined effects of heat and a billions attack, and would soon be well. He ridiculed the idea that she was suffering from poison, and said that she was nover in any danger. The subject would not have been made public had not a "personal" been published, because the people in the house did not know the address of Mrs. Kelsey's friends, who live in Fifth-ave.
